1 I. INTRODUCTION

2 Defendants' motion is a summary judgment motion masquerading as a
 3 motion to dismiss for failure to state a claim. It is supported purely by argument
 4 and unauthenticated documents. Plaintiff will not address the affirmative defenses
 5 that Defendants claim should result in dismissal of the complaint. Plaintiff did not 6 anticipate them in her complaint, and is under no obligation to respond to them in 7 opposing a motion to dismiss under Rule 12(b)(6).

9 II. Under Ninth Circuit Authority The Statute Of Limitations In
 10 Copyright Actions Has Not Run On Plaintiff's Claim

11 A. The Statute Only Bars Claims That Accrued More Than Three
 12 Years Before Filings

13 In this Circuit, the 3 year statute of limitations for bringing a copyright
 14 infringement case under 17 U.S.C. §507(b) begins to run as each new claims
 15 accrues. "An action may be brought for all acts that accrued within the three years
 16 preceding the filing of the suit, Hampton v. Paramount Pictures Corp., 279 F.2d.
 17 100, 105 (9th Cir. 1960), Roley v. New World Pictures, Ltd., 19 F.3d 479-482 (9th 18 Cir. 1994), cited with approval in Seven Arts Filmed Entertainment Limited v.
 19 Content Media Corporation, 733 F.3d 1251 at 1254-1255 (9th Cir. 2013). In Roley,
 20 plaintiff's claims were barred by 17 U.S.C. §507(b) for all claims accrued before
 21 February 7, 1988. Plaintiff was entitled to proceed with his claims for all acts that 22 accrued within the three years preceding the filing of the suit. Not having any,
 23 summary judgment was affirmed.

24 Copyright infringement can be and often is a continuing tort; that is, each
 25 new act of infringement, each publication triggers a new cause of action. Roley,
 26 supra, at 481-482. Also, the statute does not begin to run on a claim until Plaintiff
 27 has notice of the infringement. Polar Bear Products v. Timex Corp., 384 F.3d 700
 28 (9th Cir. 2004).

2 B. Nothing In The Complaint Even Remotely Suggests That Plaintiff

3 Is Suing On Any Copyright Claim That Accrued More Than 3

4 Years Prior To Filing

5 The original complaint was filed on February 6, 2014, so 507(b) only bars
 6 claims accrued before that date in 2011. The First Amended Complaint, adds
 7 additional defendants controlled by Defendant Travolta, alleges that Defendants 8 secured contracts with three sponsoring agencies as the proximate result of 9 Defendants' infringement of Plaintiff's copyright. Nothing in the complaint
 10 alleges the dates of the infringement or when the claims accrued.

11

12 C. The Statute Of Limitations Is An Affirmative Defense

13 Where a complaint contains nothing to show on its face that the statute of 14 limitations has run, the complaint cannot be challenged by a Rule 12(b)(6) motion
 15 to dismiss. Supermail Cargo, Inc. v. United States, 68 F.3d 1204, 1206-07 (9th
 16 Cir. 1995)(The Ninth Cir., granting reversal and remand of the district court's 17 dismissal of the complaint under FRCP 12(b)(6) as untimely under statute of 18 limitations, held "a motion to dismiss based on the running of the statute of 19 limitations period may be granted only if the assertions of the Complaint, read with 20 the required liberality, would not permit plaintiff to prove that the statute was 21 tolled.). In order to dismiss a claim as untimely on a 12(b)(6) motion it must 22 "appear beyond doubt that the plaintiff can prove no set of facts that would 23 establish the timeliness of the claim." Id. at 1207.

24 Defendants argue that because the alleged infringing work attached as 25 Exhibit A to the complaint is dated in April, 2010, the statute has run. But, the fact
 26 that the document is marked as a draft, indicated that it was not published. The act
 27 of publishing a work is one of the six (6) rights that are exclusive to the copyright
 28 holder. 17 U.S.C. §106(5). Publication is separately actionable from the acts of

1 making a copy or a derivative work. Defendants also beg the question when 2 plaintiff was on notice of the defendants making the copy/derivative work. The 3 statute does not begin to run until plaintiff is on notice of the act of infringement.
 4 Polar Bear Prods., supra, at 706.

6 III. LACHES IS NOT A DEFENSE WHEN THE ALLEGED
 7 INFRINGEMENT IS WILLFUL

8 Like the statute of limitations, the equitable doctrine of laches is an 9 affirmative defense to copyright infringement. When the infringement is found to 10 be willful, otherwise undue delay in bringing the claim will not bar the plaintiff's
 11 claim for laches. Danjaq LLC v. Sony Corp., 263 F.3d 942, 959 (9th Cir. 2001),
 12 distinguished where infringing works produced under cover of title, Evergreen
 13 Safety Council v. RSA Network Inc., 697 F.3d 1221 (9th Cir. 2012).

14 In any event, laches is an affirmative defense in copyright actions, which the 15 defendant has the burden to prove. Danjaq, supra, 263 F.3d at 951; also see,
 16 Petrella v. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Inc., 695 F.3d 946, 951 (9th Cir. 2012), cert.
 17 granted, 134 S.Ct. 50 (2013)¹

18

19 IV. DEFENDANTS' CLAIMS OF OWNERSHIP OF THE COPYRIGHT
 20 ARE AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES, NOT RAISED IN THE 21 COMPLAINT ITSELF

22 A. Plaintiff Is The Prima Facie Owner Of The Copyright

23 The copyright registration was issued to Alisa Wolf, and no one else. See 24 Exhibit B to the Amended Complaint, attached. The certificate of registration is 25 prima facie proof of her exclusive ownership of the copyright. 17 U.S.C. §410(c),

26

27 ¹ In the Petrella case, the Supreme Court will resolve a circuit split on the question whether 28 the defense of laches is available in an action for copyright infringement, a view which the Ninth Circuit supports, or whether Congress intended to preclude this equitable defense when it enacted the express three-year statute of limitations in 17 U.S.C. § 507(b).

1 S.O.S. v. Payday, Inc., 886 F.2d 1081, 1085 (9th Cir. 1989)(A copyright registration
2 is “prima facie evidence of the validity of the copyright and facts stated in the 3 certificate.”)

5 B. Defendants’ Affirmative Defense That Mr. Travolta Owns
6 The Copyright As A Work For Hire Is Irrelevant To The 7 Question Whether The Complaint States A Claim

8 Defendants attach a series of $500 checks ending in February 2006 from Mr.
9 Travolta d/b/a Entertainment Experience to plaintiff, to prove that the Practical 10 Film Vocational Program was a work for hire, and therefore Mr. Travolta owns the 11 copyright in it. They are not payroll checks, and there is no notation what they 12 were for. Ownership based on the work-for-hire doctrine is an affirmative defense
13 that is irrelevant to the question whether the complaint states a cause of action.
14 When the defense is raised in an answer, plaintiff expects to prove that the 15 copyrighted work was not created in connection with any work commissioned or 16 paid for by Mr. Travolta.

17

18 C. Mr. Travolta’s Claim Of Co-Authorship Is An Affirmative
19 Defense

20 Defendants claim that Mr. Travolta is a co-author of the copyrighted work.

21 If and when this defense is raised, plaintiff expects to show that he did not write
22 a word of it. The co-authorship issue is irrelevant to defendants’ Rule 12(b)(6)
23 motion.

2 V. LACK OF COPYRIGHTABLE SUBJECT MATTER IS NOT A
3 GROUND FOR DISMISSAL UNDER RULE 12(b)(6)

4 The level of expression required to distinguish copyrightable work from an 5 uncopyrightable idea is low. Atari Games Corp. v. Oman, 888 F.2d 878, 883 (D.C.
6 Cir. 1989)(Review of Register of Copyright's denial of registration, MSJ for 7 registrar reversed and remanded to review application taking into account that the 8 "level of creativity necessary and sufficient to copyrightability has been described 9 as 'very slight', 'minimal' and 'modest'"). The certificate of registration is *prima
10 facie* proof of copyrightable subject matter. *United Fabrics Int'l, Inc. v. C&J
11 Wear*, 630 F.3d 1255 (9th Cir. 2011)(Dismissal of a copyright action was improper
12 because, as the copyright claimant, the owner was presumed to own a valid
13 copyright pursuant to 17 U.S.C. 410(c), and the facts stated therein, including the 14 chain of title in the source artwork in dispute, were entitled to the presumption of 15 truth.) The bald assertion in a brief that there is nothing copyrightable in the 16 program cannot lead to a 12(b)(6) dismissal.

17

18 CONCLUSION

19 Plaintiff has pleaded all of the elements of a claim for copyright
20 infringement, with sufficient detail to give Defendants ample notice of all the 21 grounds for her claim.
